

Edmonton & Area Midwifery Clinics Updated Nov 2023

- Midwives are covered for Albertans under AHS funding and take over primary-care of a doctor or obstetrician for a normal, healthy pregnancy & birth.
- Step 1 in applying for a midwife is to fill out the Request For Care form through AAM (Alberta Association of Midwives). Every clinic requires this to be filled out before they can consider taking you into care. *Note: this form asks you to select your preferred clinic. ONLY the clinics you select will be able to see your application. If you have no preference and are willing to travel to any one of them, consider choosing all of them.
- Step 2: fill out internal applications for the clinics that have one (see below).
- Step 3: email each clinic individually and let them know who you are, that you've filled in the application, and a bit about why you want to have a midwife.
- Some midwives will accept privately-paid patients if they're at their AHS funded limit but have capacity for more patients. If you're willing to privately-pay (about $4500), you can put this on the application next to your AHS health care number as well as in your email.
